

Minerva Access is the Institutional Repository of The University of Melbourne

Author/s:

Willoughby, M;Kinner, SA

Title:

The absence of women involved in the criminal justice system from Australia's national discussion on preventing family and domestic violence

Date:

2021-11-15

Citation:

Willoughby, M. & Kinner, S. A. (2021). The absence of women involved in the criminal justice system from Australia's national discussion on preventing family and domestic violence. Medical Journal of Australia, 215 (10), pp.487-. <https://doi.org/10.5694/mja2.51319>.

Persistent Link:

<https://hdl.handle.net/11343/299111>

MS. MELISSA WILLOUGHBY (Orcid ID : 0000-0002-4360-2605)

Article type : Letter to the Editor (new)

Article begins on page three of this document.

Title	The absence of women involved in the criminal justice system from Australia's national discussion on preventing family and domestic violence
--------------	--

Authors:

	Title	First name	Mid initials	Last name	Postnom (eg, PhD) [3 only for publication]	Position1	Address1	Position2	Address2	Tel	Email
1	Ms.	Melissa		Willoughby	Ba(Hons)	PhD Candidate	1	Research Assistant	2		mwilloughby@student.unimelb.edu.au
2	Prof.	Stuart	A	Kinner	PhD	Honorary Professor	1	Professor of Adolescent and Young Adult Health Equity	2		s.kinner@unimelb.edu.au
3
4
5

Number of corresponding author:	1
Number of alternative corresponding author:

Addresses:

	Institution	City	State	Post Code
1	University of Melbourne	Melbourne	VIC	3010
2	Centre for Adolescent Health, Murdoch Children's Research Institute	Melbourne	VIC	3052
3
4
5

This is the author manuscript accepted for publication and has undergone full peer review but has not been through the copyediting, typesetting, pagination and proofreading process, which may lead to differences between this version and the Version of Record. Please cite this article as doi: 10.1002/MJA2.51319

Postal address of first corresponding author (if different from the institutional address given above)
--	--

Primary Keywords [Office use only]	Environment and public health; Social Determinants of Health; Women's health
Secondary keywords [Office use only]	Population policy; Public health; Public policy; Domestic violence; Violence; Women's rights
Notes:

Article details (press ctrl – 9 to enter details):

Article type	Letter
Blurb

Office use

Ms. Number	mja21.00465. R1
Medical editor	Elizabeth Zuccala
Medical editor email	ezuccala@mja.com.au
Structural editor	Laura Teruel
Structural editor email	lteruel@mja.com.au
Section/Category	Letters to the editor (new)
Strapheading	Letter
Substrap

Wiley – file data:

Filename for copyediting	wil_mja21.00465_ms.docx
Accompanying graphics	None
Stock images	None
Appendices	None

Office use – history:

Event	Date
Original submission received	22/04/2021

Event	Date
Accept	05/05/2021

Proof sent to author
Proof returned by author
Published (date format xx/xx/xx)	15/11/21
Issue	10
Vol	215
DOI	10.5694/mja2 1.00465
Journal	The Medical Journal of Australia
Original article DOI (for response)

The absence of women involved in the criminal justice system from Australia's national discussion on preventing family and domestic violence

TO THE EDITOR: The Standing Committee on Social Policy and Legal Affairs recently completed its inquiry and final report into family, domestic and sexual violence in Australia.<sup>1</sup> This comprehensive report made 88 recommendations to inform Australia's next National Plan to Reduce Violence Against Women and their Children (National Plan).

The report explores violence victimisation in diverse communities (eg, Indigenous people, people with a disability). However, consideration of women involved in the criminal justice system is conspicuously absent. Many women involved in the criminal justice system are victim-survivors of family, domestic and sexual violence. Estimates suggest that between 70% and 90% of women in prison in Australia have been victims of violence.<sup>2</sup> In addition, our previous research found that women released from prison are 16 times more likely to die from violence compared with women of the same age in the Australian population.<sup>3</sup>

However, the only mention of women involved in the criminal justice system as victim-survivors in the report is in the subsection discussing Indigenous people which acknowledges that Indigenous women experience disproportionate levels of violence victimisation and incarceration. While Indigenous women should be a priority group for violence prevention, and are over-represented in prisons in Australia, this was a critical missed opportunity to address the over-representation of victim-survivors in the criminal justice system. For many Indigenous and non-Indigenous women, their offending is connected to previous experiences of violence victimisation.<sup>2</sup> Victim-survivors are also being funnelled into the criminal justice system due to inappropriate criminal justice responses to family and domestic violence.<sup>4</sup>

As noted in the report, the current National Plan (2010–2022)<sup>5</sup> has not been successful in reducing violence against women, and as such, this type of violence remains a prominent and all too common issue in Australia. Women involved in the criminal justice system should be among the priority groups for national violence prevention strategies. The next National Plan should address the health and social needs of these women, which are often drivers of both criminal justice involvement and violence victimisation (eg, mental health, housing, financial independence). Trauma-informed criminal justice responses that recognise the impact of traumatic experiences on health and behaviour, such as pre-arrest diversion to mental health or family violence services,<sup>6</sup> are also needed. Without this, women who are victim-survivors of violence will continue to be criminalised due to a misunderstanding of the impacts of family, domestic and sexual violence on their health, lives and behaviour.

Acknowledgements: Melissa Willoughby is supported by a National Health and Medical Research Council (NHMRC) Postgraduate Scholarship (GNT1151103). Stuart Kinner receives salary support from a NHMRC Senior Research Fellowship (GNT1078168). The funding sources had no involvement in the writing of the letter or decision to submit it for publication.

Competing interests: No relevant disclosures.

Author details

Melissa Willoughby<sup>1,2</sup>

Stuart A Kinner<sup>1,2</sup>

1 University of Melbourne, Melbourne, VIC.

2 Centre for Adolescent Health, Murdoch Children's Research Institute, Melbourne, VIC.

mwilloughby@student.unimelb.edu.au

doi: 10.5694/mja21.00465

References

- 1 House of Representatives Standing Committee on Social Policy and Legal Affairs. Inquiry into family, domestic and sexual violence. Canberra: Commonwealth of Australia, 2021. <https://apo.org.au/sites/default/files/resource-files/2021-04/apo-nid311677.pdf> (viewed Apr 2021).
- 2 Australia's National Research Organisation for Women's Safety, Women's imprisonment and domestic, family, and sexual violence — research synthesis. Sydney: ANROWS, 2020. <https://d2m9gno7zhxqg.cloudfront.net/wp-content/uploads/2020/07/16102534/ANROWS-Imprisonment-DFV-Synthesis.1.pdf> (viewed Apr 2021).
- 3 Willoughby M, Spittal MJ, Borschmann R, et al. Violence-related deaths among people released from prison: a data linkage study. J Interpers Violence 2020; doi: 10.1177/0886260520905546 [Epub ahead of print].
- 4 Ulbrick M, Jago M. "Officer she's psychotic and I need protection": police misidentification of the "primary aggressor" in family violence incidents in Victoria. Melbourne: Women's Legal Service Victoria, Monash University; 2018. <https://www.womenslegal.org.au/files/file/WLSV%20Policy%20Brief%201%20MisID%20July%202018.pdf> (viewed Apr 2021).
- 5 Australian Government. National Plan to Reduce Violence against Women and their Children, 2010–2022. <https://plan4womenssafety.dss.gov.au/> (viewed Apr 2021).
- 6 Substance Abuse Mental Health Services Administration. Creating a trauma-informed criminal justice system for women: why and how. Rockville, MD: SAMHSA, 2013. http://www.nasmhpd.org/sites/default/files/Women%20in%20Corrections%20TIC%20SR\(2\).pdf.pdf) (viewed May 2021).